

At a time when the missionary societies are awakening to the needs of the unevangelized Mohammedan world, every one should know what Mohammedanism is, how it arose, what are the elements of its strength and its weakness, and what Christian nations have done and can do for Moslems. This book gives the story of the great Arabian Prophet and the spread of his religion. It tells what Moslems believe in regard to this life and the life that is to come, and what they think they must do in order to gain salvation. In a general view of the Moslem world, the social and moral evils of Islam, together with the power of this system on the lives of its votaries, are exhibited. The story of missions to Moslems is briefly sketched, and shows by typical examples what can be done and should be done to meet the present problem and peril in this day of opportunity.

May the study of this theme lead many to pray for the millions still under the yoke of the false prophet, and arouse the spirit of Christian chivalry in the hearts of the young people who read these chapters, so that they may devote their lives to carrying the gospel to every Moslem land.

S. M. ZWEMER.

New York, April, 1908.