Obviously "forty and two" is wrong for Ahaziah's father began to reign when he was thirty-two and reigned eight years. (II K.8:17) The difficulty is removed if we suppose the numbers in the Hebrew text of Chronicles were transmitted by letters. 40 and 2 would be מ + ב ; 20 and 2 would be י + ב . It is not easy to think that the י would have been mistaken for a מ , but in early days they were more similar, as a few examples (from Gesenius' Grammar) will show:

Siloam inscription - - - B.C. c.700. - - -	$\frac{ד}{מ}$	$\frac{י}{ב}$
Hasmonean - - - - - B.C. 2-1 cent. -	מ מ	י י י
Aramaic-Hebrew inscr.- - A.D. 1-4 cent. -	מ מ מ	י י י

4. The LXX here has "the second year of Jehoshaphat rather than the 38th year of Asa. Notice that the Hebrew says Omri acceded in Asa's 31st year, Ahab
